

“Errors” to fix in gabc or tex files for Psalms

The position of the flex in some psalms changed between the publication of the 1934 editions of the Liber Usualis, both the 800 with French rubrics and the 780 with Latin ones as well as the corresponding 801, with English rubrics, which are somewhat ubiquitous among those singing from used editions, and the file available as a scan from the CMAA. This will need to be rectified in both the gabc file and in the tex file.

As mentioned in the overall style guide, Flex needs to become Flexa (the colon is preserved) and the appropriate number of forward slashes added for spaces, lest the word run into the previous one. Again, ctrl+F is your friend!

This isn’t an error, but a choice: for psalms sung with tone 4 A* or 8 G*, the convention today is to sing the alternate ending on each verse; this is not given as an EUOUAE ending for antiphons, and Solesmes did not encourage the practice (doing it only at the doxology). We should add the additional note and the punctum (always in the form fg . . or whatever the notes are — the dots must both follow the last note of the podatus).

- All psalms will require insertion of doxology (Glória Patri).
- Each “verse” needs to be numbered (assuming that we continue to number psalms!) according to the Liber Usualis, edition to be specified.
- Sancto needs to become Sancto; idem for italic.
- if “lô” is italicized, then it will need to be kerned (with \hspace due to the macro). A good starting point for this persnickety combo is 0.03em.

Psalms 109:

- Remove colon at end of every gabc file.

Psalms 110:

- Remove comma around “Dómine” in the gabc file.
- Remove comma after “Sanctum”

Psalms 110:

- Remove comma around “Dómine” in the gabc file.
- Remove comma after “Glória”
- c-t and s-t need to be brought together in the same syllable (\- needs to go after the vowel if it may potentially go onto a new line).

Psalms 113:

- Remove comma before “Dómine” but not the one after!
- Remove comma after “omnibus”.
- Remove ë and replace with e.

Psalms 115:

- “conspéctu” is prone to splitting; \- is probably needed after “é”.
- Remove colon after “ejus” at the end of the verse (not at the mediant!).
- Remove comma after “Dómine”.
- Remove comma after “tui”.

Psalms 115:

- c-t in “noctem” needs to be placed in the same syllable.
- Remove ë and replace with e.
- Make sure that “réd” is in the same syllable of “rédimet” and in “redémption” (and that “pt” is together) respectively.
